

Summary

What the website will do is “advertise” different dog breeds. The user can search for the breed they want, and they will be redirected to the page about the breed (if it’s there); they can also follow the links on the home page, where they will be listed under “small,” “medium,” or “large” categories. There will be 3 dogs for each category. Their pages will list 5 fun-facts, with some pictures/gifs. 13 pages total.

Intended Audience

The website will be particularly useful for people looking to get their first dog, and wanting to do their research beforehand. But it is for everyone and anyone wanting to learn about different dog breeds.

Features

Features include a search bar and navigation panel. The logo on each page will redirect to the home page.
